

INIAN
ISLANDS
INSTITUTE

Climate of Hope

Living Alaskan and working for change

Inian Islands Institute

Join us in a week-long, immersive course for adults – a journey into the heart of the Alaskan wilderness and into the science and solutions of climate change.

- Experience Alaskan life at an authentic homestead that strives to model sustainability
- Partake in meaningful physical work in service of the campus and community – firewood, fishing, construction, and tending the garden
- Hike and paddle through the most magnificent wilderness in North America, on the front lines of climate change
- Learn the essentials of climate science from Zach Brown, PhD
- Gain practical tools for solving the climate crisis from Zach and renowned author Kim Heacox
- Find inspiration unlike you will anywhere else

DETAILS

- July 25 – August 1, 2020
- 12 Participants
- $2500 for rustic “student” accommodations; $3500 for more comfortable “B&B style” accommodations (limited availability). Prices are all-inclusive from Juneau, AK; participants are responsible for their own travel to and from Juneau. Scholarships available for educators, activists, nonprofit leaders, and others on the front lines of the fight for climate justice.
- FMI or to sign up, contact Zach Brown at zwbrown@inianislandsinstitute.org or 907-697-2210

Zach Brown

After completing his PhD in climate science at Stanford University, Zach hiked and paddled 2300 miles to his homeland of Alaska to found a field school. He now serves as director of Inian Islands Institute.

Kim Heacox

A passionate champion of public lands and climate action, Kim writes for The Guardian, and has authored 14 books, including The Only Kayak and John Muir and the Ice that Started a Fire.